

Nike and Bandier Just Launched a New Athleisure Collection and You're Going to Want Every Piece

With clothes this cute, you now have an excuse to go to the gym.

By Michelle Gant Nov 16, 2016

Going to the gym can be a real struggle and it's often hard to find motivation to get off the couch. But thanks to Nike and Bandier's new rose gold themed collection, you'll be dying for an excuse to show off your new outfit.

Nike and Bandier teamed up to create this limited-edition collection featuring a tank, sports bra, leggings, and six sneakers, all with a variation of rose gold accents. This collection comes just in time for the Holiday gift-giving season and is right on trend with its emphasis on our favorite metallic shade.

The star of the collection has to be the solid rose gold Nike Air Max Thea sneakers for $115. These kicks are the perfect (and practical) shoe to take you from the gym to brunch to running errands. All of the sneaker styles, including the Free Transform Flyknit, Free TR6, and Flex Supreme TR, are available online at Nike.com.

The rest of the items are only sold at the Flatiron Bandier store in New York City. As a bonus, with any item purchased in-store, you'll receive a free Glossier rose-flavored Balm Dotcom, an awesome all-purpose salve. But don't freak...if you don't live nearby, you can order any piece over the phone and have it shipped. Be sure and snag the collection before it's gone.

From: POPSUGAR